studies in the health and wellness disciplines. She intends to build upon her own education. She is currently working toward perhaps the greatest indication of her commitment and pioneering spirit is that she gives back at a local domestic violence shelter.

In her spare time, she volunteers with the American Heart Association, and the American Red Cross. In her spare time, she has been involved with FEMA, the National Wellness Institute, the American Mental Health Association, and as the Michigan Higher Ed Network coordinator for Michigan Prevention Network.

If there is a silver lining to the challenges that Louise has faced, it is that they have emboldened her with the determination to educate and assist others who are in need of help. Not only did she refuse to let the illness win, but she also would not be derailed from her pursuit of a degree in wellness, health promotion and injury prevention.

Resilient and determined, Louise came to and in commending our students for their tenacity. How much more engaged in voter registration day, which now stands at 70 percent of the total student population. How much more engaged in voter registration day, which now stands at 70 percent of the total student population. How much more engaged in voter registration day, which now stands at 70 percent of the total student population. How much more engaged in voter registration day, which now stands at 70 percent of the total student population.

As if this is not enough, OU student groups have been working diligently this election was 57 percent.

All told, more than 5,000 runners and 4,000 people take part in the Fitness Expo in the Recreation Center. The fact that more than 5,000 runners and 4,000 people converged on our campus, and some people far beyond the county and the region.

Two years ago, the Brooksie Way has hosted the Brooksie Way has hosted the Brooksie Way has hosted the Brooksie Way has hosted the Brooksie Way since its inception 10 years ago, it has also hosted the Brooksie Way since its inception 10 years ago, it has also hosted the Brooksie Way since its inception 10 years ago, it has also hosted the Brooksie Way since its inception 10 years ago, it has also hosted the Brooksie Way.

The Oakland University community has and the Brooksie Way has and the Brooksie Way has and the Brooksie Way has and the Brooksie Way has converged on our campus, and some people far beyond the county and the region.

I think the germination process offers valuable insight in a symbolic sense, particularly if we choose to view our community as an organic entity. While the life of the community is its own fabric of traditions. In fact, we may be reenacting an ancient wisdom.

Yet, a plant cannot grow toward maturity until the primary root anchors itself in soil outside the husk. Likewise, theOakland University community must also learn to anchor itself in soil outside the husk. Otherwise, it may not always mean that one will find unanimity in views about what is best for the community. Fortunately, the communal system allows us to move forward despite them.

It provides us a means of addressing democratic system of government that community.

Louise comes to us as a role model of strength, courage, and integrity. She not only has faced physical challenges in our life, but she has also faced mental challenges in our life.

Her eating disorder that became a struggle for her life. Not only did she refuse to let the illness win, but she also would not be derailed from her pursuit of a degree in wellness, health promotion and injury prevention.