A Colloquium: Conversion Narratives in Judaism, Christianity and Islam

Conversion from one religious group to another is a nuanced, controversial topic rarely discussed among scholars of three major religious groups in the world: Judaism, Christianity and Islam. Because these groups are significant members of the Oakland University communities, this colloquium offers an opportunity to explore the process of religious conversion in and among these groups.

Moderator
Louis B. Gallien, Jr., Ed.D.
Dean, School of Education and Human Services - Oakland University

Panelists
Assistant Professor, Practical Ministry and Global Missions - Regent University

Henri Gooren, Ph.D.
Associate Professor, Anthropology - Oakland University

Michael Weiss, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor, Teacher Development and Educational Studies - Oakland University

Please RSVP
Holly Smith
(248) 370-3045
smith211@oakland.edu
A Colloquium:
Conversion Narratives in Judaism, Christianity and Islam

April 2, 2012  6:00 - 8:00 P.M.  350 Pawley Hall

Event sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences, the Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Social Work, the Religious Studies program and the School of Education and Human Services