Note 5:

MIS 6900 - ST: Business Application Tech (CRN 11474): As the Web becomes a standard platform for enterprise computing and e-commerce, most of the business applications developed nowadays are web-based. Web application development is steadily becoming more complex. There is a great need for separating the content from the page design so that content could be modified without changing the layout. Server-side technologies (such as Servlets and JSP) facilitate web applications to be broken down into separate components, which allow different groups to work on different aspects of the application. For example, one group could focus on design of the layout, "look-and-feel" etc. while another group may concentrate on just the content. This course focuses on the fundamentals of web applications as well as the programming technologies and techniques to build them.

Note 6:

MIS 6900 - ST: Social Network Analysis (CRN 13741): An advanced course involving study of current research issues and recent developments in IT and IS management. Topics vary.
