If you haven't decided on an undergraduate major, OU's academic advisers will help you choose the one that best fits your interests. You'll complement that major with general education courses — courses that all students study — giving you a well-balanced, global education.

Graduate students learn alongside renowned faculty to dive deeper into their area of study and pursue research linked to technological, economic, scientific and political solutions.

MERCY AGWANIRU loves everything about science and how the body works. It's why she came to OU from Nigeria. Now she's majoring in health sciences, and conditions before the sun rises. Her focus is fierce — she's already looking ahead to earning her Master of Public Health.

Mentored by prominent professors, undergraduate biology major and Egypt native PETER GAIED investigates how proteins in the eye can lead to disease — an opportunity that's teaching him to think like a scientist and troubleshoot like a doctor.

Located in the heart of Oakland County, one of the nation's hardest working and most prosperous counties, OU is literally at the center of opportunity. With the help of OU's Career Services, our students land internships and job placements with major corporations like Stellantis, Beaumont Health System, General Motors, Quicken Loans and Continental AG — all in Oakland's backyard.

oakland.edu/careerservices

Through innovative partnerships with businesses, non-profit and civic organizations, you can gain practical, career-related experience through valuable internships, co-ops or public service opportunities.

International students may take advantage of employment opportunities available at OU, including on-campus positions, graduate assistant positions, graduate research positions and internships/co-ops.

To further expand your global horizons, OU offers opportunities to study abroad in more than 45 countries, including China, Israel, England, Greece, South Africa, Japan, Costa Rica, Germany, Canada, Australia and Brazil. You can develop worldwide social, linguistic, academic and professional skills while earning credit toward your degree.

Or you can take an academic adventure within North America by studying away at nearly 200 colleges and universities in the United States, Canada, Guam, Puerto Rico or the U.S. Virgin Islands. You'll spend a semester or year experiencing valuable academic and personal growth — while paying OU tuition and receiving OU credit.

CONNECTIONS

"I love Oakland University. The faculty and staff are very friendly and helpful. The university embraces 'creating the future' through research, activities and student involvement. Students have many opportunities in college and after they graduate that are not available in many other places."

- Sharanya Reddy (India)

In a 15 minute drive, you can find yourself in downtown Rochester, with tons of shopping, dining and entertainment opportunities. And nearby Auburn Hills offers another lively downtown with restaurants, nightlife and the DEN, a renovated historical cabin with free wi-fi and study areas.

OAKLAND PRIDE RUNS DEEP THROUGH ALL 300 STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS.

Whether they're organizing relief efforts with the American Red Cross Club, learning different math concepts with the Mathematics Student Society, or advocating on behalf of other students with OU Student Congress, all members proudly represent Oakland in the community and across the country.

After attending OU's Transfer Student Open House, JOHNNY PHAM saw exactly what he wanted in a university: an inclusive community, faculty who would know his name, the opportunity to develop relationships — and an easy commute. He found exactly what he needed at OU, and he's proud of the life he's built.

Many students choose OU for its small campus feel. It's that sense of community, of not getting lost in the crowd, that so many are drawn to. And it swells each day you're on campus — each time you discover a hidden study spot, when the bells ring in the Elliott Tower, when the sun shines on the Saints and Sinners fountain, each time you lay in a hammock near Bear Lake, each time you pass a friend who was once a stranger.

Located near the heart of campus, each residential opportunity is a quick walk from classrooms, computer labs, student services, recreational and dining facilities, Kresge Library and more.

Residents enjoy wireless Internet, cable TV, lounges with big-screen TVs, free parking and laundry facilities. And all rooms are furnished with:

- extra-long twin or double-sized beds
- plenty of storage space, including dressers, shelves and closets
- free amenities such as cable, Internet and laundry
- desks, chairs and lighting

There are many housing opportunities available, including two student apartment complexes and six residence halls that offer convenience and safety. In fact, OU is one of the safest universities, with a high-level of security and its own police department.

Several off-campus apartment complexes offer additional housing opportunities, including options for international students with families.

You can also participate in OU's International Village, where domestic and international students room together in the Ann V. Nicholson student apartment complex to get a better understanding of each other's cultures, countries and customs. This unique living arrangement is open to any OU student with at least 56 credits and who is at least 20 years old. The village includes students from countries all around the world.

Residents participate in many diverse programs and events, including:

- special events and organized social activities such as holiday celebrations, movie nights, and international food nights
- scheduled excursions to plays, museums and area festivals
- opportunities for on-campus employment, giving international students a glimpse into the American workforce

DIVISION I ATHLETICS

goldengrizzlies.com

The clock counts down. The crowd roars, fists in the air. Sweat drips through your brows and into your eyes. Your muscles ache and your feet are like cement. Your heart is pounding, your breath ragged. You're almost ready to give up. But you don't — you're a Golden Grizzly and your drive never stops.

Whether on the court, the field or in the pool, OU student athletes push themselves past the breaking point. Discipline, strength and the desire to win fuel them to achieve their best. And it's working: since joining the Horizon League, one of the top performing leagues in the NCAA, OU has won 74 Division I championships and made 54 NCAA appearances.

You can participate in Division I athletics or more than 40 intramural and club sports — including a competitive cricket club that has won several matches against rival universities in the metro Detroit area.

You can paint yourself in black and gold, and cheer on your Grizzlies as a member of the Grizz Gang student section. You'll be equipped with free shirts, prizes, special ticket prices and more. Be among the fans who go wild for our nationally renowned OU Dance Team, Cheer Team and Golden Grizzlies Pep Band.

The best part? You don't have to break the bank for some fun — most games are free for OU students.

Located on 1,443 acres of wooded hills and meadows in northern Oakland County, Oakland University is an epicenter of artistic enrichment.

Five cultural gems sit right on campus for you to enjoy:

- Varner Hall houses OU's School of Music, Theatre and Dance (MTD), which hosts year-round student, faculty and guest performances
- Meadow Brook Hall, a National Historic Landmark and the former home of OU's founders, is preserved with the original art and furnishings from the 1920s, including a recently-rediscovered Spanish masterpiece now on display at the Detroit Institute of Arts
- OU Art Gallery, which features innovative painting, sculpture, photography and video by Oakland students and breakthrough artists
- Meadow Brook Amphitheatre, an outdoor summer amphitheatre that has hosted David Gray, Sarah McLachlan and O.A.R.
- Meadow Brook Theatre, Michigan's largest nonprofit professional theatre, which presents everything from Lysistrata Jones to A Christmas Carol Off campus, you can experience the vibrant downtown of Rochester, named one of the nation's top 10 places for lifelong learning by U.S. News & World Report. Oakland even provides Bear Bus shuttles that take resident students around town for shopping, dining and entertainment outings.

You can also explore neighboring Auburn Hills, home to the Downtown Educational Nook (DEN), and The Palace, which features live concerts as well as Great Lakes Crossing Outlets, Michigan's only enclosed value-regional mall.

BE EMPOWERED

We know that transition can be challenging, especially for students in a new country with new surroundings. But with hard work and determination — plus the help of OU's resources — you'll be equipped with the confidence to tackle any new circumstance.

OU's International Students and Scholars office is your home away from home. Through service, support and advocacy, the dedicated staff, including two newly-appointed international student ambassadors, nurtures global citizenship and multicultural appreciation. You can take advantage of immigration-related advising, social and cultural counseling and helpful orientation sessions. You can also participate in:

- Cross cultural programming like Chinese New Year, International Night, Hispanic Celebration and more
- International Allies, a student organization that introduces international students to American life
- Learn About Me, which gives international students the opportunity to educate children about their countries and cultures
- Host Family Program, which offers hospitality and resources for integration with American culture
- International Village, a living learning community with domestic and international students living together

You can reach your language goals at OU's English as a Second Language (ESL) Institute, which offers courses to meet the needs of all language proficiency levels — from beginning through advanced. Courses are designed to comply with AAIEP accreditation standards and embrace the main areas of ESL education: reading, writing, listening and speaking.

Whether you are interested in improving your English or improving your TOEFL or iELTS score, the ESL Institute provides services and programs that will help you climb the ladder of success.

ESL STUDENTS CAN TAKE ADVANTAGE OF FREE WORKSHOPS ABOUT GRAMMAR, CONVERSATION, AMERICAN CULTURE, AND MORE.

XIANGGUANG DUANMU came to the United States to pursue his goal of earning an advanced degree in finance. "Oakland University is the first American university to establish cooperative relationships with my home province, Guizhou Province, China. I was very impressed by the decades-long relationship between OU and Guizhou, and I was lucky enough to be one of the first students in the cohort doctoral program of literacy education. My professors' enthusiasm and professionalism in scholarship is contagious. With their advice and guidance, I am growing into a qualified researcher and educational practitioner."
