Dear Dr. Wasvary,

Thank you for being the most amazing PRISM mentor we could have asked for. You opened up your home to us, fed us your yummy baked goods and reached out to let us know you were thinking of us. You filled the position of mentor, physician, mother and friend.

Thank you for always being available and gearing the session towards what we wanted to talk about; allowing us to speak our minds without intimidation. You brought us so much light and positivity during our most stressful times.

Your love, support, advice, cookies, and brunches at your sweet home made such an impact on relieving the stress of medical school. Words cannot express enough about how much we appreciated all of the ways you have comforted, encouraged, inspired and guided us throughout the course of medical school – we are so grateful.

If only a fraction of humanity had your beautiful soul. We are incredibly lucky to have you as a mentor, colleague and friend. We are truly blessed to have had you in our lives!
