

Pecha Kucha Presentation Technique

Micro-lectures

Pecha Kucha (PK) is a great strategy to use for micro-lecturing. This technique is a concise, visual presentation that can be used in a variety of settings, including the classroom (online or face-to-face). It works well for faculty- and student-generated content for the simple fact that it forces the presenter to be concise and deliberate with the limited time they have to present.

20

slides

20 seconds

6

minutes

40

seconds

Pecha Kucha – “chit chat” (Japanese)

[petch-aa-koo-chaa]

Learn more about Pecha Kucha events, and watch a Pecha Kucha presentation on Pecha Kucha in presentations at oakland.edu/teachingtips

Pecha Kucha Presentation Technique

From TechnologyLearning

Humboldt State University, College of eLearning – May 2014

Pecha Kucha (PK) is a great strategy to use for micro-lecturing. This technique is a concise, visual presentation that can be used in a variety of settings, including the classroom (online or face-to-face!). I have used this technique in many settings and have encouraged it for student-generated content for the simple fact that it forces the presenter to be very concise and deliberate with the limited time they have to present.

Pecha Kucha includes a total of twenty slides, twenty seconds each, for a total of six minutes and forty seconds. Take a look at this Pecha Kucha presentation, sharing what it is all about in the PK format.

Submitted by:

Kimberly Vincent-Layton, MBA
Instructional Technologist, College of eLearning
Lecturer, Department of Communication
Humboldt State University
707.826.6112
HSU Coordinator for CSU QOLT Program
Co-Coordinator Institute for Student Success
STEM-PAC
Kim.Vincent-Layton@humboldt.edu